Agricultural Society Assisted...

A $25,000 grant from the Alberta Lottery Fund was presented last week by MLA John Drobot to Elk Point and District Agricultural Society representatives Dave Kenyon (left) and Thomas Kondla. Drobot's efforts in obtaining the grant, which will be used for the purchase of much needed equipment and for retirement of capital debt, were warmly praised by the grateful recipients.

Nominations require two days

Mayor Bruce Kleeberger and School Trustee Janice Van Maaron were returned to office by acclamation Monday, but nominations for the six Town Council seats came up two short.

Incumbents Alvina Schuhmacher, Allan Frankiw and

Steve Shmyr and former Council member Morris Cooper were the only individuals to file nomination papers for the Council seats by the Monday noon deadline. Cooper spent seven years on Council, prior to his defeat in the 1986 general election.

Bicentennial first steps

The first steps in planning for celebrations of the 1992 Bicentennial of the establishment of Fort George and Buckingham House fur trading forts are now underway, with both the Town of Elk Point and the Elk Point Tourism Action Committee pledging their aid to the Elk Point

Historical Society, who have agreed to spearhead arrangements for this exciting event.

The forts share their bicentennial with that of Alexander Mackenzie's successful voyage across North America to the Pacific Ocean, with 1992

However, by press time Tuesday, three further nominees had taken advantage of the deficit to add their names to the list: Adele Mandryk and Lawrence Pidluzny, both of whom ran in last December's by-election, and first time candidate Mike Glover. If none of the seven nominees withdraw before today's noon deadline, there will be an election to determine who will fill the six Council seats.

There will definitely be a contest for Elk Point's Ward 7 Hospital Board seat, which sees incumbent John D. Williams and Orest Capjack in the running.

Lottery funding for Agricultural Society

Elk Point and District Agricultural Society received their fourth annual Alberta Lottery Fund grant payment last Friday, with MLA John Drobot in town to present the cheque for $25,000 to Ag Society Vice President Dave Kenyon and Treasurer Thomas Kondla. A large portion of the grant will go toward the purchase of a new Zamboni ice surfacing machine, while the balance will be used toward capital debt repayment.

thanks to Drobot for his efforts on the Ag Society's behalf in obtaining the grant, noting that the purchase of the Zamboni is critical to the ability to operate the arena this coming winter. 'Last year, especially during the provincial tournament, we just had our fingers crossed that the old one would hold together a bit longer.'

In announcing the approval of the grant last Wednesday, Agriculture Minister Ernie Isley said 'Alberta's agricultural societies have played a very important role in improving the quality of life in the province's rural communities. The Elk Point and District Agricultural Society has upheld this tradition through its dedication to providing beneficial programs and facilities to the people it serves.'

Associate Agriculture Minister Shirley McClellan agreed, adding, 'the funding we have announced today will help this agricultural society continue to provide an exceptional standard of service to the Elk Point community.'

Some 295 Alberta agricultural societies, the organizations responsible for many of the fairs, exhibitions and

These funds may be applied to any area of an agricultural society's operation, including debt retirement, program implementation, administration or capital improvement.

In concluding the announcement, MLA Drobot noted, 'the Government of Alberta is very pleased to make this contribution to a very worthy community organization. We congratulate the Elk Point and District Agricultural Society on its achievements to date, and wish the society continued success in its future activities.'

Water source not final

A government decision that the Town of Elk Point must pump water out of Hook Lake via Atimoswe Creek to fill the Town's raw water reservoir is not water under the bridge, after all.

Town Council was briefed at Monday evening's special meeting that a meeting with officials from the Department of the Environment has been scheduled for Thursday, September 21, at which time alternate water sources of Moosehills Lake, Kehewin Lake and the North Saskatchewan River will be assessed.

Panic button premature

While more than half the grain in the area remains unharvested, it's still a little premature to push the panic button, according to district agriculturalist Kirsty Piquette.

Piquette estimates as much as 80 per cent of the crop in the county still has to be combined. However she's quick to point out that when you consider the long-term average for the area, farmers are not behind in harvest this year.

"If you look at the last few years we're behind, but if you look at the long-term average we're probably right on target."

September rains, according to Piquette, are nothing new. Area farmers have just been lucky in the last couple of years that they've been able to finish ahead of schedule.

However, the quality of this year's crops has her concerned.

"They swathed early because the crops matured quickly but then it rained and they've had a late start with combining. The quality is very poor. Cereal grain is all going to be feed. Nothing good will be coming off here."

The quality of canola is down but the seed has quite a high oil content and can be used for crushing, Piquette said.

County fieldman Dennis Bergheim said it will take at the very least another week of good harvest weather to catch up on the combining.

"With the rains we've had the yields are not as estimated," he said, adding that quality varies from one part of the county to the next.

Fundraising shoot-a-thon

The F. G. Miller High School gymnasium will reverberate with the rhythm of bouncing basketballs this Friday evening, starting at 7:00 p.m., as basketball players from Elk Point Elementary and F. G. Miller Junior and Senior High are joined by the Elk Point Pacers men's basketball team for a fundraising Shoot-A-Thon.

Participants will be collecting the names of sponsors willing to donate a pledged amount for each successful shot. Each participant will have 50 tries at the basket. Funds raised will go toward the Glass Backboard Project.

The public is encouraged to come and cheer the basketballers on. Coffee, juice and doughnuts will be served.

One local business is helping with the students' fundraising efforts, to the tune of 2 cents for every litre of gas which is sold through their retail pumps until September 30. Ruth and Ed Vogel of Vogel's UFA are pleased to be able to assist the project in this way.

AMPLE Funding Presented...

A $37,000 grant to the Town of Elk Point under the Alberta Municipal Partnership in Local Employment (AMPLE) program was presented to Mayor Bruce Kleeberger by MLA John Drobot last week. This year's grant is the third of seven annual grants, made on a per capita basis. AMPLE is an unconditional grant to be used as the Town sees fit, and is designed to provide funding for construction projects to create local employment. The Town is banking the funds toward a major project, such as a new Community Services Centre or infrastructure upgrading.

also marking Canada's 150th birthday and the 50th anniversary of the Alaskan Highway.

The Fort George-Buckingham House Bicentennial was mentioned in a letter to the editor of the Edmonton Journal last Saturday, September 16, from former Minister of Culture and Multiculturalism Greg Stevens, who is now the Managing Director of Sir Alexander Mackenzie Canada Sea-to-Sea Expeditions. Stevens suggested in his letter that Premier Don Getty could follow up his commitment to restore historic Dunvegan with a commitment from the Province to restore Fort George and Buckingham House. Stevens feels that the restoration would have long-lasting educational benefits and that income generated by the tourism benefits would recover the Province's capital costs in less than five years.

Elk Point Historical Society would be nothing less than ecstatic if this were to happen. The group has been lobbying for full reconstruction of the forts for many years, and such an announcement would truly be the icing on their Bicentennial birthday cake.

Soldan retires as golf club president

Ed Soldan has retired as the President of the Elk Point Golf and Country Club after a six year stint, with Tim Holliday voted in as the new President at the September 10 Annual Meeting. Don Anderson will be the 1990 Vice President, with Pat Johnson as Secretary and Tom Holliday as Treasurer.

The six years since Soldan took the post have seen many changes for the Club, such as the building of a handsome club house and a storage building, the erection of a handsome sign, and, for the first time this year, the employment of a full time manager. Soldan says the hiring of Steve Shmyr to oversee the day-to-day operation of the Clubhouse and Course has 'taken quite a load off my back,' and has allowed the Club to rent four newly purchased sets of clubs to golfers. The new service has been so popular that the clubs 'just about paid for themselves in one year.' Shmyr donated sod for the 7th Tee for a trial project, Soldan said.

The Golf Club also had four summer helpers: Jackie Gulayec, Claudette Poitras, Danny Maas and Calvin Bepalko.

Soldan expressed warm thanks to Shmyr and the summer workers for their efforts, as well as to all the club members who helped to make the year a very successful one.

Among other individuals, groups and businesses who also have contributed to the Golf Club's success during Soldan's term of office are the Elk Point Co-op, Elk Point Gas, Amoco Canada Ltd., John Oryshchuk, Shamrock Valley Enterprises, Carouells Construction, Phil's Hardware, St. Paul Foundry, the Town of Elk Point and Town Council, Pete Stafford, Troy Lorensen, Bill and Pearl Bepalko, Tom and Erna Holliday, Barbara and Bill Milholland, Leon and Evelyn Babcock, the Elk Point Ski Club, the Lakeland Review, and the Elk Point Oilmens' Association. Soldan thanked all for their help, as well as the past executive members, whose efforts through the years are much appreciated. He added a special thanks to Bill Milholland for his summer-long battle against the Golf Course's pesky gopher population.

Sheer Magic...

Magicians Murray Hatfield and Brenda Fox enraptured a sizeable audience at last Friday's 'MAGICADABRA' show sponsored by the Elk Point Public Library. Their ninety minute show of illusions, tricks and music held all ages spellbound.

County election line-up

Three of seven seats on the St. Paul County Council went unchallenged Monday returning Robert Bouchard in Division 5, Bill Ference in Division 3 and Bob Smith in Division 1 to office by acclamation. This is the highest number of unchallenged seats returning officer Russ Kowtun can remember.

Meanwhile, the other four incumbents will be hard on the campaign trail the next few weeks preparing for the Oct. 16 election.

Long-time county councillor Rudolphe Cote chose not to seek re-election this time around. He was first elected to represent Division 4 in 1962. Three candidates are looking to fill his seat on council - Lawrence Bodnar, May Magnan and Frank Schwengler.

In Division 2, John Hutton has also decided against seeking a second term in office. Challenging the vacant seat there will be former councillor John Zenko, who lost in the 1986 election, Franklin Wolters and Gordon Kuhn.

Division 6 sees Dwayne Lindberg being challenged by Rodney Cheshire for the second time around. And in Division 7 Henry Hoolahan is up against Walter Kaprowski.

Despite the three divisions being won by acclamation, eight polling stations will still have to be set up in those areas because of the provincial Senate election which is being held in conjunction with the municipal election.

"I have to run the polls just like any other election. I still have to have people in place for the Senate election."

In all, 19 polls will be set up throughout the county with two people manning each station.

Janice VanMaarion has won the county school trustee seat in Elk Point by acclamation.

Elections to the Elk Point Municipal Hospital District 18 has Marvin Bjornstad and George Sanders seeking election in Ward 2, Douglas Miller and John Wozniak in Ward 3, and Craig Campbell and Mike Kadutski campaigning in Ward 4. The county no longer elects representatives to the St. Paul General Municipal and Auxiliary Hospital District, rather the positions are by appointment.

Voter turnout for the 1986 municipal election was 78 per cent, according to Kowtun. He believes the turnout this year won't be as high.

"It seems to me there's not as much interest this round as last round. I don't think it's going to be an exceptional turnout."

Magic was magnificent

By Adele Mandryk

What a magnificent performance! The magic of Murray Hatfield and Brenda Fox astounded and mystified the many people in attendance at Friday night's Magicadabra show. All the way from Calgary, this top notch act was one of the most pleasurable and entertaining evenings available to this community in quite a long while.

Catchy music, lovely costumes, exciting illusions, a variety of tricks and audience participation made one and one half hours fly by with tremendous speed. Murray and Brenda enriched the lives and excited the imaginations of young and old alike.

The Elk Point Public Library should be commended for contributing to the cultural needs of Elk Point and district! Louise Krissa, Library Board Secretary, organized this event and should be thanked for her enthusiasm. The support of Dave's Pizza, F. G. Miller High School, the Elks Club, Mr. O'Neill's Grade 9 students and many other volunteers made this show very successful.

The Library Board thanks all those in attendance for their support and would like everybody to keep their eyes open for similar first-rate performances in the future.

The race is on???

It's like giving a party, and having no one show up.

Only, in this case, it's not the would-be social event of the season, it almost was the would-be POLITICAL event of the season.

For Mayor Bruce Kleeberger and School Trustee Janice Van Maaron to be returned to their posts by acclamation, is great. Both are doing a fine job in their exacting roles, and it is good to know they will be able to carry on with what they have started.

It's also good to see a little competition for the Hospital Board seats—both in Elk Point and in the County. With the recent rumblings over operations of that body, this should bring some interesting campaigning to the fore.

What was really sad was not only not having any election race for the six council seats, but not even having enough nominations filed on Monday to fill them. It seemed, when nominations closed at noon Monday that no one else out there, beyond the three incumbents and one former Council member, cared how things are run in Elk Point, or cared enough about how their dollars are spent to want to have a say in the democratic process. It looked like another Little Red Hen story.

As we go to press Tuesday, we hear that three more concerned individuals have put forth their names, and shown their willingness to help this Town serve its residents and plan for the future.

It's a relief to know that someone DOES care, and, barring any withdrawals by the nominees, we may even have a race on our hands. Thanks to all those who are willing to get involved in this very vital part of the operation of our town.

We're all winners

Have you given up on ever winning a lottery? Don't look now, but if you are a resident of Elk Point and area, or of 294 other communities across the province, and even if you have never squandered a single hard-earned dollar on a ticket, you already have had a share in the winnings.

Our front page story tells of a $25,000 grant from the Alberta Lottery Fund going to the Elk Point and District Agricultural Society. This is the fourth such annual grant, making a total of $100,000. That is almost $75 for each of the 1300-and-some men, women and children in Elk Point, or about $20 per capita if you take in our surrounding area.

Individually, that doesn't seem like much. If you or I won such a minor sum, we would hardly consider it of great significance, especially if it is spread over 4 years. Collectively, however, it's another story. A $25,000 boost helps our agricultural society and others around the province to repay capital debt they have taken on for building and repairing arenas and other facilities used by the public, and helps them to start new capital projects or to provide new programs for the people of the community.

Often, this aid is absolutely essential to the operation of a community facility. Arenas are buildings which see a substantial amount of use, and which cost a great deal to run. Sometimes the fees for hockey, skating and other uses just don't add up to total anywhere near the bills for power, gas and upkeep, let alone to make improvements and to provide new programs to attract more users to come and share the debt load.

It won't be long now before Elk Point and district is back spending many winter leisure hours at the arena in the enjoyment of ice sports. Let's remember, if we have purchased a lottery ticket or two during the year, that we have helped to keep the arena operating, and that in a sense, we are winners because of that.

Alberta Trails

Blaze of autumn

By Irene Magnusson

Any road we travel, here in the Parklands, these autumn days, will show sights to please and thrill the eye and mind. The colors of fall this September, around here, have never been more brilliant. Perhaps a 'peace offering' from Old Mother Nature for all the dismal days and starless nights we've suffered with so long?

It's not good for the farmers' bins - or bank books - to have the swaths still lying in the fields, deteriorating. After countless days with rain, in small or large amounts, one could hope to see the wheels turning, chaff flying, that the patiently waiting machines would at last start gobbling through those million miles of swaths. But again the rain has fallen, and the day is gray. Still - farmers have had to practice patience before, and will again.

Again there should be wealth of canola this year. The blazing gold of short weeks ago has long since given way to winding rows of bulky brown stretching away in every direction. Can you remember when you saw your first field of rape, as we called it way back then? All that gold! Now, with some genetic improvements, it has become canola, a contraction of "Canadian Oil," also known as the Cinderella crop. Found to be shorter on cholesterol than other fats and oils, canola could prove to be a lifesaver to many who cannot tolerate high cholesterol levels.

I wonder if the 'burn' method of removing the straw and trash of canola is as widespread as it once was? It's always been a problem to dispose of, not good for the soil, nor as livestock feed.

I sincerely hope the trend, promoted by agriculturists and crop scientist, and promoted in many farm articles, of less tillage of the soil will continue. The sight of a bare black field terrifies me, after some of the dust storms of recent years. And it isn't only the dust in the air, in the house, in your eyes. It's the terrible waste of our good topsoil that is so sad. No amount of working the soil will ever put back the fiber and nutrients the raging wind can tear away, if allowed to sweep over naked fields.

This summer has brought, along with the abundant rain, a good stand of pasture growth. Even the pastures that seem overstocked, have managed to replenish themselves again and again. It is always painful to see the absolute nakedness of pastures in some places, in some years, with every spear of growth devoured, shrubs, leaves, twigs - even tree bark - until the earth seems to have been vacuumed rather than grazed.

Then there are the un-cropped, un-pastured lands, such as here on my farm, where the grass is head-high (I didn't say whose head...) and so thick and tangled a person can hardly walk through it.

Again, I offered it to the deer - but there are few deer in the forest these days (regardless of what you hunters say!) and they are not partial to my kind of grass anyway. If there was a way to burn ONLY the grass, that would probably be the best treatment, but alas, the birds and the bees and the tall spruce trees would all go up in smoke - and perhaps me along with it - so that is out. My best bet would be a herd of horses or cattle, but alas again, the fences all are gone, and it's hard to keep horses and cattle in one place without a fence around them all. But I do get nostalgic now and then to see a herd of Holsteins wandering over there in the long grass, under the trees, in the old school yard.

A walk in the forest which follows

Letter to the Editor

Needy vs greedy

Dear Editor:

Thank goodness for the article of Irene Magnusson's on senior citizens, in the September 6 issue.

I don't often read Irene's articles, but this time I'm glad I did.

In all age groups, we have the needy and the greedy. The needy are the ones who are down to their last resorts before they ask for help (and often they are the ones refused).

The greedy are the first in line anywhere the seniors get ten percent off, well dressed, driving new cars or big motor homes, having big bank accounts, and with a loaded grocery cart that you know is not all for them.

And they say, 'well, we deserve our government cheque.' Did their parents ask for help in the 1930s? It's nice that help is there for the needy, not the greedy. By the time our grandchildren are old, there will be no money for anyone.

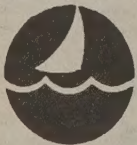

Nowadays when you want anything you ask for it and the government is supposed to give. What has happened to helping oneself?

Those who give their children everything are only helping to raise more greedy adults. It is nice to give to one's children, but not if they don't need it. They'll just spend it foolishly and ask for more.

The ones who need the help are the ones raising a family, not the greedy. That's my view on people getting government money and extra help when they don't need it, regardless of age.

Help the children of the future to help themselves, and maybe there will be no more strikes to help the greedy to get richer, and there just might be help for our grandchildren when they are 65 years old.

New faces at elementary, F.G. Miller

The arrival of a new school year has brought with it new staff members for both Elk Point schools. Sandra Ockerman and Heather Gillespie have joined the teaching staff at Elk Point Elementary, while Cheri Lindquist, Henri Joly and Glenda Brandingen have been added to the F. G. Miller High School roster.

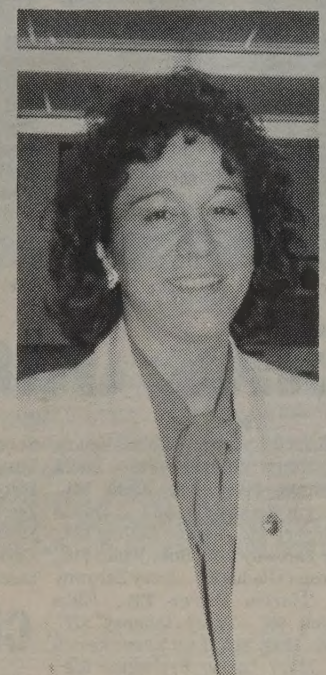

Sandra Ockerman is back in her hometown after teaching at Kehewin for the seven years since she completed her education at the University of Alberta. Miss Ockerman is teaching Grade 2, and says her move to Elk Point Elementary is a 'refreshing change.' She has an 'interesting group of students—I'm really enjoying them,' and finds her fellow staff members are 'more than willing to make you part of the team.'

Heather Gillespie comes to Elk Point from Edmonton, via Frog Lake, where she taught for the past two years.

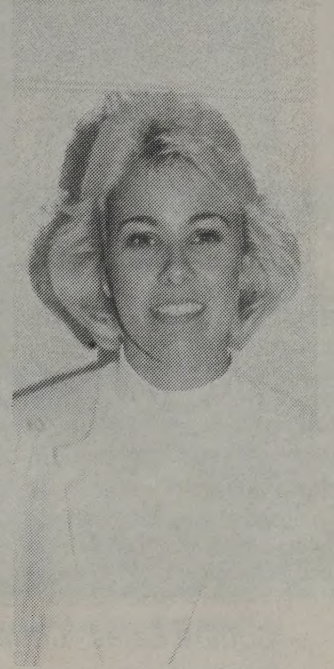

Her Grade 1 students are 'enjoyable and eager,' while the Elementary staff is 'really friendly and helpful' to the newcomer.

Cheri Lindquist is a local farm wife, who is returning to teaching after several years at home. F. G. Miller's new Home Economics teacher has also served as the Elk Point 4-H MultiClub's Food, Clothing and Interior Decorating leader for the past two years.

Henri Joly was born and raised in our neighboring town of St. Paul, and has spent the last 7 years at the University of Lethbridge, where he earned a B.A. in Physical Education and a B.Ed. in Modern Languages. He spent 4 of those years on the U of L hockey team, of which he was captain for two years. This is Joly's first year of teaching, and he has found 'a lot of good people here,' as he starts his career by teaching Phys Ed and Outdoor Ed at FGM.

Glenda Brandingen replaced Wesley Neumier toward the end of the 1988-89 school year, and is back this year to teach Grade 7 Language and Math, Grade 8 Health, Grade 9 Outdoor Ed and Grades 8 and 9 Phys Ed. Originally from Sedgewick, Miss Brandingen spent the early part of last year substitute teaching in Edmonton, but finds FGM and Elk Point 'great!'

Life does have its ups and downs doesn't it? When the cycles are up, you're up, you lucky thing. And when they're down, you're down. Just like Sun Sign astrology, it's fun to find out what the day holds for you. If your suspicion is confirmed it's a high point. It's uphill from here if you can only last until the office closes for the day. The Universe is not a Swiss watch, Nature is no respecter of timetables. That's why we have so much trouble predicting earthquakes, weather, and a whole host of events which are part of our experience. Only Mother Nature knows and she's reluctant to talk. Astrological techniques generally allow predictions only to within a few days or weeks. Biorhythms attempt to predict a high for a special day. When you put all the elements together astrology does work. People everywhere are reaching out for a greater wholeness in their lives. If they claim to have found some guidance in this search from astrology, don't deny them.

The Lakeland - an autumn tartan

By S.F. Thompson

Of all the seasons, autumn is the most precious. It teeters uncertainly between the warmth of summer and what always proves to be a long and frozen winter. Yet we are distracted in spite of ourselves by its brilliance.

Spring is a welcome season. We strain for the first tinge of green on the landscape. But no one minds when its promising, fresh tones mellow into the palette of summer. Wildflowers pass in a continual parade across the growing season: saskatoon, rose, daisy, aster, fireweed and finally, sadly, the goldenrod.

There is always a let-down at the end of summer. We have convinced ourselves over the season that somehow it will go on forever. The last days of August tell us otherwise. But when the first hard frost hits and the skies clear to cornflower blue, our hearts soar to touch that blue. There is a bounce in our step. And every tree and shrub seems to catch the mood, each trying to upstage the other.

If ever we choose a Lakeland tartan, this brief precious time of year would provide our inspiration. The cloth itself would be blue: the clear, wonderful blue of our autumn skies and lakes reflecting one another. We would need blocks of dark jade green, fat and solid, the color of our steadfast spruce, a green that will see us through every season. The sunshine yellow of the birch leaves would need to appear in a finer thread along with the warm ochre of our stands of poplar trees. Could a tartan represent the Lakeland without squares of gold to show our harvested fields? Running horizontally throughout and in a slender band would be the crimson red of the fireweed, dogwood and roses.

For an actual demonstration of this tartan played out on the landscape, find an excuse to travel to Bonnyville this week. The dappled interplay of blues and golds, reds and greens is at its best. A tartan in these colors would show everyone the beauty of the Lakeland.

Child seat buckle defective

The Alberta Motor Association, in cooperation with Transport Canada, alerts consumers that 14,609 units of the Ultara I child car seat have been distributed across Canada with defective buckles.

The child restraint, model #420, has a swing-over arm that fastens by a push button buckle. Testing by the manufacturer revealed that the latch plate, which snaps into the buckle, will bend in a serious motor vehicle collision. As a result, the force required to undo the buckle exceeds Canadian safety standards, making it difficult to undo the buckle and get a child out of the restraint.

To date, no accidents have been reported which could have been attributed to the buckle release problem.

The affected seats were manufactured by the Evenflo Juvenile Furniture Company between November 14, 1988 and June 15, 1989. Repair kits, consisting of a new harness, tongue assembly, release button shield plate and installation instructions, are available free of charge from Evenflo.

Ultara I car seats made after June 15, 1989 have buckles which meet the safety standard. The Ultara II, model #421, with a T shield, is not affected by this public notice.

Harvesting your garden vegetables

Knowing when your vegetables are ready to harvest or how to ripen vegetables picked before a frost are two common questions gardeners ask experts at the Alberta Tree Nursery and Horticultural Centre.

"Most of the common questions are about corn, tomatoes, onions, squash and pumpkins," says Pam North, information officer at the centre.

Dry or brown corn silk is one indication that corn is ready to eat. Cobs should be checked to see if there are kernels to the tip indicating the cob is full.

"Kernels should be at the milk stage. Check by piercing a kernel with your fingernail. If a white milky liquid squirts out, then the corn is ripe. If the liquid is clear, then the corn is still immature. If the liquid is lumpy, the cob is over mature but is still edible. The over mature corn won't be as sweet," she says.

Corn that isn't used immediately after it is picked should be cooled, she adds. Cooling will preserve sweetness as sugar is converted to starch as soon as the corn is harvested. The corn can be refrigerated or soaked in ice water.

Vine ripened tomatoes are another popular garden item. North says gardeners can promote vine ripening by pruning flowers after August 1, topping staking varieties after August 1 and withholding water from the plants.

"Pruning flowers and topping the plants will allow the plant to put more energy into the existing fruit," she says.

Although vine-ripened tomatoes are a goal, sometimes the late summer and early fall weather doesn't co-operate, so tomatoes have to be harvested when they are green. Tomatoes will ripen indoors when they lose their dark green color and turn yellowish green. "Tomatoes will ripen indoors, but keep them in a sunny windowsill rather than wrapping them in paper and storing them in a box. Sun ripened tomatoes will have 50 per cent more vitamin C than those ripened in the dark," she notes.

Pruning vines to prevent flowering after August 1 on winter squash and pumpkin plants will also encourage those vegetables to ripen. Squash is mature when a thumbnail can't break the skin of the squash, she adds.

Onions are ready to harvest when the tops fall over naturally. "Breaking over the tops is not recommended because those onions won't mature properly or store as well.

"To promote maturity, withhold water after August 15. Also, you can lift onions slightly with a garden fork to break the feeder roots," says North.

After harvest, the onions need to be cured at a warm temperature (26 to 30 degrees Celsius) for a week to ten days. The tops will dry and the skin will get papery, and the onions will store better, she says. Onions should be stored at zero to three degrees Celsius.

For more information about harvesting, ripening and storing vegetables, contact North at the Alberta Tree Nursery and Horticultural Centre in Edmonton at 472-6043.

Ministry in Music...

Elk Point United Church was blessed with the musical ministry of the HIS Gospel Singers last Sunday, as they expressed their faith in song, testimony and exhortation. Members of the group are, (left to right) Bonnie Robinson, Meredith Whiteside at the keyboard, Lorraine Whiteside, Shelley Johnson and Deborah Grey. Ms Grey also gave an inspiring address on the need for Christians to be involved in addressing political problems, and asked the congregation for their prayers for her efforts in the 'dry and thirsty land' of our nation's capital, where 'people care more about power and re-election than about other people.'

Cholesterol testing: Understanding the results

The link between high levels of cholesterol in the bloodstream with increased risk of heart disease has been well-established. Many health-conscious persons are having their cholesterol levels tested to determine their risk and to seek appropriate treatment when needed. Yet, test results may vary from one lab to the next, and often what is considered "normal" for a given sampling of people may actually be well above the guidelines recommended by the National Institutes of Health (NIH). Additionally, other factors such as age, sex, and the amount of "good" cholesterol (HDL) in your bloodstream also affects how your test results will be interpreted.

Measuring Cholesterol

A relatively simple blood test can determine the amount of total cholesterol present in a specified amount of blood. This amount is expressed as milligrams of cholesterol per deciliter of blood or mg/dl. Generally, a person whose level is above 200 mg/dl (regardless of age) should consult with their doctor about ways of lowering total blood cholesterol.

Determining Risk

fects of total cholesterol levels on heart disease risk for various age groups. (Source: National Institutes of Health.)

RISK:

25-29 years — Moderate - 200-220 mg/dl; High - 220+ mg/dl.
30-39 years — Moderate - 220-240 mg/dl; High - 240+ mg/dl.
Over 40 Years — Moderate - 240-260 mg/dl; High - 260+ mg/dl.

What's news at the library?

Are you feeling bored now that the children are all back to school, kindergarten and playschool? The Elk Point Library needs volunteers to help keep up its high standard of service. If you have a few spare hours you would like to donate to volunteer service, come into the library and apply to the staff.

Start making your Christmas crafts and gifts early. The Elk Point Library has received a block shipment of twenty-two craft books from the office of the Northeast Library Project. These are on display in the library.

Storytime entertained twenty-two preschoolers at their regular storytime last Friday at 10:30 a.m. The staff would like to thank Faye Smith for volunteering to read a book and help out with our puppet show "Fire, Fire, Fire". The staff would also like to express a heartfelt thanks to Lena Stepa for volunteering her

Friday mornings to help out at the front desk at storytime.

I would like to thank all the people who made our Official Opening the success it was. Special thanks to Doris and Leanne Wilson who spent most of the afternoon helping get things organized and to all those who donated their beautiful items for our display.

Special thanks also to Deborah Grey, M.P. Beaver River, His Worship Mayor Bruce Kleeberger, and Mr. Rollie Seville from the Department of Advanced Education who took time from their very busy schedules to be with us that evening. May the success of opening night continue into the rest of the Further Education year. Thanks again for your support!

Finishing Touches...

Construction workers toil while the sun shines to add the finishing touches to the enlarged gymnasium at Elk Point Elementary School. Work is also nearing completion on two portable classrooms which will help the school to cope with a sizeable increase in enrollment, much of which is in the primary grades.
